

A very large Muskie was right up on the shore at my sister's cabin. She said he was in between their water slide and the shore (3-4 ft?). Her little Yorkies were in the water playing with a brood of 3/4 grown ducks. The fish appeared and lunged at one of her dogs (Murphy) and grabbed a duck. She said it was a terrible commotion and she thought Murphy was being taken under the water. Murph is our rescue Yorkie from Chicago and it has been a long year to gain his trust and for him to feel safe. He has made great progress the last 4-5 months. Her grandkids often play where this Muskie attacked. The neighbors tried to catch the Muskie, but he got away. Everyone was outside enjoying happy hour by the water when the fish appeared and caused such a ruckus. She said the fish's dorsal fin stood way out of the water. The to-do upset everyone.
